WHEEL DEALS

Honda Accord Hybrid rated 50 mpg city

Honda says its 2014 Accord Hybrid will take some of the fright out of going to the gas pump when the sedan debuts at U.S. dealers nationwide on Halloween (Oct. 31). Starting prices range from $29,945 to $35,695, including the $790 freight charge from Marysville, Ohio.

The hybrid debuts a two-motor hybrid system that integrates a 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine, lithium-ion battery pack and six-speed automatic transmission. The front-drive sedan can be driven in three driving modes - EV, hybrid and engine. Mileage ratings are 50 mpg city, 45 mpg highway and 47 mpg combined.

The Accord Plug-in Hybrid went on sale earlier this year.

STEPPING OUT NORMAL HEIGHTS

WHILE YOU'RE THERE

Although they started in Normal Heights in 2003, AMSD Concerts (formerly Acoustic Music San Diego) remain relatively unknown outside Mid-City. The shows are held at the Normal Heights United Methodist Church, which provides pleasant acoustics in a 250-seat venue for concerts ranging from Celtic harp to solo vocalists to bluegrass bands. Reserved seats or tickets packaged with dinner at nearby DiMille's Italian restaurant are available for most shows. Coming in October: British Invasion hits, gypsy jazz and alt-country. For more, visit www.AMSDConcerts.com.

Super Normal Heights

Normal Heights is a prospering Mid-City neighborhood whose Adams Avenue business district has flourished in recent years. Where dive bars and doggy discount shops once stood are Starbucks and taverns with $10 cocktails. But that doesn't mean Normal Heights isn't still rife with bargains.

Take Discount Fabrics, for example. Located in an old theater, this seamstress's dream store is not fancy but it offers a wide variety of upholstery and clothing fabric plus knowledgeable sales staff. Another terrific find on Adams is Visual, an independent art supply store that hosts occasional art exhibits.

Normal Heights doesn't have much in the way of clothes shopping. Elos Shoes shines bright, though, with its combination of environmentally sustainable and comfortable footwear. Pilgrimage of the Heart — a yoga studio — also has eco-friendly products including gym wear. Mission Outreach Thrift Store is a well-organized boutique that sells all styles from vintage to modern.

For the home, stop by Stuff, a consignment furniture store that always has interesting pieces. Another fun place to look for knickknacks and art is Back from Tomboctu Gallery and Imports, currently featuring an array of Day of the Dead items.

The Normal Heights section of Adams Avenue used to be a go-to source for used books but most of those stores have closed in recent years. Still remaining are The Book Tree, which specializes in spirituality titles, and Scarlet Letter Books, where owner Julia will guide you to a new read.

Normal Heights is also home to a number of services. Tire Depot has competitive pricing and includes free lifetime rotation with tire purchases. Pet Me Please stocks supplies mostly for cats and dogs with staff who can help solve pet-care dilemmas. And The Key Crew is a locksmith that can handle any lockout or lost-key problem with ease.
